

DESCRIBES SOUTH AS BEING HOPEFUL

G. Grosvenor Dawe Gives Impressions of His Tour of Cotton States.

DECLARES IT EQUAL TO HANDLING WAR SITUATION
Found Nowhere Any Desire for National Aid Other Than That Accorded Other Sections.

Grosvenor Dawe, who has just returned to Washington after a comprehensive tour of the southern states, today gave The Star his impressions of conditions prevailing there, particularly with reference to the effect of the European war has had on the cotton crop. Mr. Dawe declared that he found the south optimistic and capable of handling the situation itself. Mr. Dawe took the trip to complete all arrangements for a tour by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He said:

"In the past thirty days I have visited every cotton-growing state except two. Business men were met in twenty-one cities. Industries and farms were visited and every opportunity given for getting at the mental state of the south."

"It is right to say with all possible emphasis that nowhere did I come across anything that indicated a desire for the south to depend on Uncle Sam, as a mendicant, and ask for aid, except such as could be given in line measure to all other parts of the country."

"In Texas particularly did I hear the question put, 'If we all, less than two years ago, depended on Uncle Sam for an over-production of cotton, how could we now justify any governmental interference to valorize cotton?'"

South's Remarkable Poise.

"The striking things about the south since the outbreak of the European war has been its quick recovery of poise. The courage down there, the quiet assurance, the careful and deliberate preparation to defeat calamity are features that stand out strongly."

"There is no question as to the calamity, nor do there that the whole nation will be halted somewhat until conditions are improved. The shock to cotton values hurts the south and for debts hanging on that affect industries. Debts cannot be paid unless cotton can be sold, and thus the social order is affected—banks who loaned money, merchants who advanced supplies, manufacturers who supplied materials—an ever-widening circle of interests."

"The shock to cotton marketing hurts the nation for re-exports. The south have made our national balance great on the books of the world."

Quiet Assurance.

"At the time my trip began the St. Louis plan had hardly been mentioned. As soon as it was announced it was recognized as the vigorous step that would tend to right conditions. Curiously enough, all along the way assigned men had spoken with quiet assurance that some strong way would be found for distributing the burden."

"The question of reduced acreage seems to be the only way to some solution. First, the more intelligent plantation owners know they must diversify their farming. In Little Rock I visited a plantation of 2,500 acres. The owner made a sweeping gesture toward a vast green tract and said 'winced' as he then turned toward another enormous patch of newly seeded ground and said 'baffled'. He and hundreds of other farmers, who must have advances of either money or supplies to attempt next year's planting, will come up against two thoroughly available resources—the banker and the merchant. This year's crop of prices has shown both that next year will also be a wreck unless the crop is reduced. They will, therefore, prove a mighty effective check, for they will, from present indications, not advance except on an agreement to reduce."

Financing Agriculture Unsound.

"Everywhere I met with the confession that the financing of cotton growing was an unsound business. It is a debt had been piled up against the present crop of cotton of somewhere between $200,000,000 and $400,000,000 before a pound of the new crop had been picked. That debt is not peculiar to this year. Each year its influence goes all through the business of the south and spread to the business of the nation. The man in debt must sell, he cannot settle; dates, terms of loans and so forth mean but little to him when prices drop low or demand ceases. But his failure to settle shakes every other obligation dependent upon his coming to time."

"This is where the calamity shows up worst and serves to prove that cotton as a cash crop is the only absolutely safe basis for southern agriculture."

"In a number of southern states there is already a highly organized effort to change conditions through raising foodstuffs for man and beast and, therefore, becoming in some measure independent of purchases in these two directions."

"There is no delusion in the south as to the size of the present crop. It is regarded as enormous and bound to have produced a falling off in price under the most favorable conditions. The fact was, I found, confident belief that a right active demand will come from the warring nations; and that Germany will be found in the market. This has been confirmed in the past few days."

Some Striking Activities.

In response to a question as to the municipal and general activities of the south, Mr. Dawe said:

"The reaching of the south toward tomorrow and its requirements is extraordinary. It is not sleepy nor slothful. Let me run over a few items:

"In the States, the increasing of the scholastic facilities. It already has 4,000 out-of-town pupils in its nine colleges."

"Charleston, S. C., is working out a 5,000-acre farm in the woods northward on Cooper river."

"Savannah, Ga., has the best garbage disposal plant in the world. It saves money instead of paying it out on garbage. It has a bacteriological laboratory that takes city sanitation very seriously."

"Jacksonville, Fla., is spending $500,000 on street pavements and on burying all wires."

"Tallahassee, Fla., is opening new routes to new markets—coal to South America and rails to Canada for the Birmingham district."

"Mobile, Ala., is working out big dock improvements and planning for many years ahead."

"New Orleans is cheerfully ridding and rat-proofing for the sake of protection and recording record shipments at the same time."

"Orange, Tex., just on the line between Louisiana and Texas, is planning a 6,000-foot ship, one side of which will be under municipal control forever."

"Beaumont, Tex., is nearing the end of its effort for municipal docks on the Neches river."

Costly Buildings Under Way.

"Houston, Tex., is springing into the air with wonderful buildings: the Rice Institute, a $10,000,000 educational foundation, is now in running order; the ship channel to Galveston bay is done; gives twenty-six feet, and $2,000,000 will be spent by the city in creating a turning basin and dock facilities."

"Dallas, Tex., is also springing into the air. The jail, for instance, is many stories up where the air is pure and free. One great Methodist university is completing an imposing group of buildings."

"Shreveport, La., is reaching forward toward a great industrial future, based on the Caddo oil and its fields."

"Texarkana, Ark., is planning to spend $500,000 in streets. Two splendid high schools have just been completed."

"Little Rock, Ark., has the most superb public market I have ever seen. All chilling in its stands is done by radiation from the basement. Last year, as it were, chilled safe deposit vaults for those who want to store bulk purchases."

"Cincinnati, Tenn., is fairly spreading itself on a vast park system."

"Birmingham, Ala., is giving more and more attention to beautification. Its suburbs are superb."

"Atlanta, Ga., is becoming greater daily. It has just celebrated the progress it has made in the fifty years since Sherman destroyed it."

"Rome, Ga., boasts a new group of college buildings set on a high hill. Shorter College for Women—and the constantly spreading Berry School for country children."

"Chattanooga, Tenn., has the best industrial exhibit in the south—displaying in one building the 1,017 articles manufactured in the city."

"Knoxville, Tenn., is proud of a municipal market, is starting a chamber of commerce for boys, and is behind on its marble orders."

"Wilmington, N. C., is thriving off 150,000,000 feet of gum timber, that twelve wood-working establishments are turning into box and barrel material."

In closing, his interview relative to southern conditions, Mr. Dawe said:

"It is inconceivable that in any one of the cities mentioned, an unroofed and partially-burned high school would be left exposed to the rains for months. I doubt if any of them could understand our tardiness with the Western High School."

Describes Camp Life.

Declaring that many stories about camp life in the woods which are usually read by boys cannot be put into practical use, as they are based on theory, H. I. Bowles of the Scoutmaster's Club of Washington, last night addressed a meeting of that organization at the Raleigh Hotel. Vernon Bailey was re-elected president, George H. Ashley vice president and H. I. Bowles secretary-treasurer.

The man in debt must sell, he cannot settle; dates, terms of loans and so forth mean but little to him when prices drop low or demand ceases. But his failure to settle shakes every other obligation dependent upon his coming to time."

COURAGE IN WAR.

What war teaches—as well as business life.

"Courage in war or business is born of good pure blood. Pure blood is the greatest blessing mankind can have."

"Millions of people need this powerful vegetable remedy that puts the stomach, liver and bowels in fine condition; that clears the skin of pimples, rash, blotches and eczema; that dissolves boils and carbuncles; that makes nerves stronger and steadier and gives to the body the roundness people the fullest measure of health and happiness."

"Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, free from alcohol, does just what is stated above, simply because it banishes from the blood the impure elements of pure matter. It is the world's great blood purifier; so wonderfully penetrating that it even enters the pores, dissolves the impure deposits and carries them out, as it does all impurities, through the Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin."

"If you have indigestion, sluggish liver, backache over the kidneys, nervous or unsightly skin, get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery today and start at once to replace your impure blood with pure blood that puts energy and ambition into you and brings back youth and vigorous action."
